

SOUTH CAROLINA
AVIATION
ASSOCIATION

Buy Local – South Carolina Airports Campaign

Schedule your social media posts to go out in regular intervals. SCAA programmed its release daily. You can replicate that schedule or release the information in a format that better suits your needs. You can also send this information to airport tenants to share with their audiences. Images are found on SCAA's Facebook page at: <https://www.facebook.com/SCAviationAssociation/>. Images may also be downloaded at: <https://scaaonline.com/covid-19/>.

Fuel Graphic

Buying local whenever possible is always important, and the COVID-19 health crisis makes it a critical step to weathering this unprecedented economic storm. There are many ways pilots, aircraft owners and travelers can work to support the public-use airports and local aviation businesses in South Carolina. Money spent at your home base airport is used to employ aviation industry professionals and maintain your airfield facilities.

Filling up at your local airport is one way you can buy local in support of South Carolina aviation. Did you know S.C. aviation fuel tax revenue is used to maintain and improve our airports?

Air Charter

Buying local whenever possible is always important, and the COVID-19 health crisis makes it a critical step to weathering this unprecedented economic storm. There are many ways pilots, aircraft owners and travelers can work to support the public-use airports and local aviation businesses in South Carolina. Money spent at your home base airport is used to employ aviation industry professionals and maintain your airfield facilities.

Booking legal air charter at your local airport is one way you can buy local in support of South Carolina aviation. If you must travel, consider hiring an air charter for your essential personal or business travel, vetting the organization with these questions:

<http://newflightcharters.com/FIVE%20QUESTIONS%20FOR%20YOUR%20JET%20CHARTER%20SERVICE.pdf>

Flight Training

Buying local whenever possible is always important, and the COVID-19 health crisis makes it a critical step to weathering this unprecedented economic storm. There are many ways pilots, aircraft owners and travelers can work to support the public-use airports and local aviation businesses in South Carolina. Money spent at your home base airport is used to employ aviation industry professionals and maintain your airfield facilities.

Did you know that airport operations drive many funding allocations to South Carolina airports? When you need to perform flight training – such as cross country trips – do so within South Carolina and include your local airport in your flight plan.

Maintenance

Buying local whenever possible is always important, and the COVID-19 health crisis makes it a critical step to weathering this unprecedented economic storm. There are many ways pilots, aircraft owners and travelers can work to support the public-use airports and local aviation businesses in South Carolina. Money spent at your home base airport is used to employ aviation industry professionals and maintain your airfield facilities.

Now is a great time to schedule aircraft maintenance. Contact your home base airport's FBO to handle routine maintenance or conduct necessary repairs. Keep your aircraft in top condition and keep aviation strong in South Carolina.

Detailing

Buying local whenever possible is always important, and the COVID-19 health crisis makes it a critical step to weathering this unprecedented economic storm. There are many ways pilots, aircraft owners and travelers can work to support the public-use airports and local aviation businesses in South Carolina. Money spent at your home base airport is used to employ aviation industry professionals and maintain your airfield facilities.

Go beyond spring cleaning. From exterior cleaning and polishing to interior cleaning and disinfecting, aircraft detailing services are available at several S.C. airports.